A tumbleweed blows across the Underground today. Perhaps students are busy studying for finals. Perhaps they're busy celebrating when they should be studying for finals. Perhaps the school's e-mail server woes have cut off communication. Whatever the case, I hope this week's mini-issue finds you all well, and gives you a brief respite from the late nights of dead week. We'll have one more issue this semester!

The call is still out for a new host for the Spring semester. If you think you'd like to be the next Underground host, please e-mail me and let me know. If you have any questions, I can answer them for you.

E-mail subscriptions are always available; just send me an e-mail and I'll add you to the list.

To Sober:

Oh how I giggle to myself at the forever-rant against Tau Phi and other social clubs. Oh how intelligent and wise you are with your comma splices and terrible grammar. For example, "...they would have actually been gotten in trouble, too..." Here's to you Mr. Stone-Throwing, self-righteous juvenile. It is here now, as I literally laugh to myself, after four and a half years of school at Lipscomb that I finally am moved to reply to the Underground. Are you sad you weren't invited to the party? You must be miserable to concern yourself with a group of people who obviously don't concern themselves with you. Maybe there are some things going on in our school that shouldn't be. Maybe kids make bad choices sometimes. Maybe the deans show favoritism. Sigma Chi Delta's decision not to participate in community service was the final reason their charter was pulled. They had ample opportunity to fix their mistake; and I was sad to see them go. I know for a fact that if the deans called on Tau Phi to right an alleged wrong that they would do the community service. All in all, your sarcastic and pathetic attempt at ruffling numerous feathers only made you the butt of many jokes. Brush up on those English skills before you draw so much attention to yourself.

The Irritated English Major and Friend of former, present, and future members of Tau Phi,

Lady Welty
